

Resume

Kelvin TAN is the Dy Director of the National University Spore (NUS) Enterprise division and Head of Business Development for the Interactive Digital Media Institute (IDMI). He oversees NUS Enterprise's business development and corporate alliances in the entrepreneurial and R&D initiatives. He is a key organizer of the yearly InnovFest UnBound conference and also represents in organising committees with IDA, National Research Foundation and AStar.

Prior to this, he has founded his own company and worked in various leadership positions in ServTouch Wywy, HP, M1, AT&T and TAS (former IDA).

With his experiences and driven purpose, he has jointly launched the Modern Aging Accelerator Program with Access Health International. It is funded by Ministry of Health and supported by the Smart Nation Program Office and all IHLs in Spore. The program aims to inspire entrepreneurs to develop new start-up ideas to help the seniors by learning from a online curriculum of courses and forming teams with healthcare practitioners, VWOs, R&D, start-ups, industry mentors and VCs.
